The authors found that rare copy number variants (CNVs) that overlap protein-coding sequences can contribute to an increased risk of schizophrenia in individuals with 22q11.2 deletions. These CNVs include both rare duplications that overlap genes involved in neuronal function, as well as rare deletions that overlap more genes in individuals who develop schizophrenia.